Independent Expertise to Maximize Technology ROI

Today's general counsel (GCs) and their teams have an increasingly prominent role in managing risk for the businesses they support; they must continually monitor global operations to understand key risks the business faces today and in the future. In this challenging environment, the efficient selection, use and optimization of the right technologies are essential.

However, the ever-increasing and sometimes confusing array of legal tools and platforms—account for estimated expenditures in the U.S. market alone of $3 billion annually—creates a significant challenge for GCs and heads of legal operations who have a limited budget, no spare resources and an often over worked IT department for whom the legal department is simply not a priority.

Stakeholder Engagement - Putting Technology to Work

Today's general counsel (GCs) and their teams have an increasingly prominent role in managing risk for the businesses they support; they must continually monitor global operations to understand key risks the business faces today and in the future. In this challenging environment, the efficient selection, use and optimization of the right technologies are essential.

We understand the challenges of getting internal buy-in to the costs and return on investment of a new system, as well as the change management required to make any operational implementation successful. Our team has many years of experience working side-by-side with lawyers, corporate IT teams, consultants and technologists to successfully roll out technologies as well as educate stakeholders on the benefits of your chosen solution by:

- Developing and implementing communication strategies and plans
- Determining ongoing support requirements, roles and responsibilities
- Demonstrating return on investment
