Specialized Processes and Handling of Technology Matters

The confluence of intellectual property, broad collection and distribution of data, and broad consumer & data privacy impacts expose technology companies to a unique mix of challenges, unlike other industries. The global scale of technology companies and the crossing of geographic and regulatory boundaries only compounds these impacts. Through our repeat engagements with technology firms, Consilio has evolved a series of competencies that consistently meet the high-stakes challenges these clients bring.

Approaches Uniquely Evolved to Legal Challenges of Technology Firms

- Specialized review teams specifically developed with evolved workflows and procedures to meet client challenges with high-stakes, sensitive reviews.
- Consulting, analyzing, and addressing challenges with unique data formats – a normal course of business for technology firms – in processing and review.
- Leveraging search term analytics and technology-assisted review (TAR) workflows to help eliminate large volumes of documents from review to help eliminate and/or prioritize large volumes of documents for review.
- Applied privacy screens and redaction workflows to identify and protect data – critically important in today's environment.
- Ability to leverage consistent teams of reviewers with experience working with specific client documents – continuing to refine an understanding of the custodians, content and any unique doc types.

Case Study: Large Technology Matter Response

The Issue

A microchip manufacturer sought Consilio's assistance with an FTC anti-trust probe spanning 25 custodians and five years worth of data.

Our Approach

Facing a population under a review of over 5.6 million documents, Consilio proposed a TAR 1.0 workflow that garnered FTC approval. This included a categorical analysis prior to TAR modeling, where Consilio identified and removed from review over 400,000 unreviewable or categorically non-responsive documents. Facing a tight discovery timeline, Consilio managed the TAR training process while collections were on-going, causing data to be added for analysis on a regular basis. At the conclusion of the TAR process, the FTC challenged Counsel's proposed recall level and suggested through a novel statistical analysis that a high (80%) recall level was appropriate in the matter. Consilio, after a thorough examination of the FTC's position and analysis, countered with its own statistical and graphical analysis, supporting the client's claim that a lower recall level (and smaller overall review volume) offered a better balance of precision and F-score. Using these analyses, the client was able to negotiate a more favorable recall rate.

The Result

At the conclusion of the TAR modeling and training for this phase of the litigation, Consilio was able to leverage Brainspace to remove over 2.6 million documents from production and privilege review.
